

HONOR TO GOV. MCKINLEY

PAID BY THE CONNECTICUT LEGISLATURE.

An Enthusiastic Time at the State Capitol Yesterday—Other Delights of the General Assembly.

Hartford, April 9.—The reception to Governor McKinley of Ohio at the capitol to-day was hearty and informal, all the details passing off very satisfactorily. Upon the arrival of the train nearly as big a crowd as that at New Haven greeted the visitor from the west. As soon as the police could clear a passage through the crowd, Governor McKinley stepped from the car and was conducted by Colonel J. A. Porter down the platform to the street. He was then escorted to a carriage and with other members of the committee was driven to the capitol, where several hundred people were waiting.

Both branches of the legislature came in this morning at 11:30, one hour earlier than usual on Tuesday, in order to afford time for Governor McKinley to visit the assembly. He was first escorted to the governor's room and was cordially received by Governor Coffin. Here he received in an informal manner quite a number of people. The room was prettily decorated with flowers.

Just before 12 o'clock Governor McKinley was escorted to the senate chamber by Colonel Jarman of the governor's staff. The governor was received by the members of the senate, rising. Lieutenant Governor Cook greeted the honored guest, referring to the part which Connecticut took in the settlement of Ohio. He gave the governor a hearty welcome and as he closed his short speech there was hearty applause.

Governor McKinley responded in a few words, thanking the senate for their hearty greetings. A recess was then taken and Governor McKinley was introduced to such of the senators by Lieutenant Governor Cook. He then proceeded to the chamber of the house, escorted by Senator Hawley. In the house he was given an equally pleasant greeting. Nearly every member was in his seat and there was a great throng of spectators, including many ladies. The members rose in their seats as Governor McKinley entered. Representative Warner of Putnam, who was the acting speaker, then made a most excellent address of welcome, speaking as follows:

Governor McKinley: "We welcome you sir to this hall with the sincerest pleasure. The great state of Ohio which you so nobly represent is especially dear to Connecticut people. In your counties and towns we find our own honored names perpetuated. Our Brooklyn, Fairfield, Middletown, Lisbon, Woodstock we find again in your state, and we rejoice with you in the fame and glory of such names as Trumbull, Putnam, Waite, Hayes, Sherman and many others. And, sir, permit me to say that not only as the chief executive of Ohio do we gladly welcome you, but also because you have in your public and private life so grandly illustrated the true American spirit. As a brave soldier, as a courageous and intrepid commander, as a member of the Grand Army of the Republic to which the whole country owes a debt of gratitude not possible to pay, as a member of the noblest profession of all when nobly followed, as a wise and fearless statesman of widest experience thoroughly imbued with American ideas, devoting your highest energies for many long years to the great advantage of the country, and so courageously and so firmly demanding that foreign nations attend to their own affairs, and as true hearted knightly gentleman without fear and without reproach we welcome you to this hall."

Governor McKinley thanked the house for the honor they had conferred on him, and then said that Ohio owes much to Connecticut, for in the early settlement of that state were many men of the blood of his hearers. He thanked the representatives for the rare distinction of addressing them.

Representative Gunn of Milford, in an appropriate little speech, moved that the house take a recess of thirty minutes. "I do this," he said, "for the reason that the members can take by the hand the gentleman who has been honored by Ohio, and who has been an honor to mankind generally."

The motion was adopted and the members and their friends crowded around the governor and shook hands very heartily.

When Governor McKinley was leaving the house a venerable lady stepped up to him and said: "Do you know what is in my heart to say to you?" The governor simply bowed and General Hawley said: "He would like to hear it if the speech isn't too long."

This was the speech: "If you will work for United States citizenship for women, including her right to vote as one of the people, as hard as you work for the tariff, we will make you the next president, but not otherwise."

Governor McKinley was subsequently entertained by Governor Coffin in the governor's apartments, where were present General Hawley, Colonel John A. Porter, ex-Congressman Simonds, ex-Congressman Buck, Commodore Smith of Stamford, Congressman N. D. Sperry, O. G. Fessenden of Stamford, Speaker Fessenden's brother, Dr. R. J. Galling, General Harrison, Colonel Cheney and H. Wales Lines.

This afternoon Governor McKinley met a number of leading republicans at luncheon at the house of Colonel John A. Porter of the Hartford Post.

A colored man named Adams was arrested at the capitol during the reception to Governor McKinley for stealing a watch from B. Ellis of this city.

THE COMMITTEE HEARINGS.

The hearings before the committees were for the most part of an uninteresting nature to-day. There were quite a number assigned, but several were omitted, as many members absented themselves from the capitol after the introduction of Governor McKinley was over.

The committee on cities and boroughs were to have given a hearing on the bill changing the harbor lines of New Haven, but it was decided to postpone the matter until Friday, April 13, at 10:30 a. m.

The committee to-day heard parties concerning amending the charter of Norwich. John W. Alling is counsel for parties in this matter.

There was another hearing before the committee on education on the bill for consolidating of school districts by towns.

The committee on humane institutions heard parties interested in the bill for abolishing the state board of charities. Attorney Nickerson of Litchfield made a vigorous speech in favor and his voice could be heard all over the capitol.

C. Collard Adams of Cromwell was heard before the fisheries committee on the charges against the present fish commissioners, relating to the performance of their duties, and which was questioned by Representative Cowell of Waterbury in the house last week.

There was also a brief hearing before the insurance committee on the bill to bring secret and fraternal societies under supervision of the insurance committee.

The committee on railroads were to have heard Honorable Israel A. Kelsey on his bill incorporating the New Haven and Derby railroad, but it was put over until Thursday. Mr. Kelsey is the chief promoter of this measure and is interested in having it pushed ahead at once. The proposed road will run from the terminus of the Winchester avenue railroad in Congress avenue, through Tyler City and Orange center, to Derby, a distance of about eight miles and is to be built over private lands. To build, and equip with the best materials, will cost about $200,000, and if the charter is granted, work will commence almost immediately and Mr. Kelsey intends to complete his road by cold weather.

Representative Kinney of Somers to-day gave a trout dinner at the Allen house to members of the committee on fisheries.

SENATE.

These bills were passed: Establishing the town court in Norwalk; Amending charter of the city of Willimantic; Amending charter of the City bank of Hartford.

The bill appropriating $50,000 for maintenance of Storrs Agricultural college for two years and for additional buildings, was passed.

HIGH SCHOOLS.

The bill concerning high schools was passed. The bill:

That the state board of education is hereby directed to investigate the subject of high school extension and to call to its aid those who may desire to offer suggestions and recommendations and to make use of any means which shall state which may seem desirable to give the best solution of the problem; the results of such investigation to be incorporated in its next annual report together with such recommendations in the matter of legislation as they may deem to be wise.

A bill was passed providing that the selectmen of any town, and the chief of police of any city, may grant licenses to suitable persons to be pawnbrokers and may revoke such license for cause, but selectmen shall not grant such a license within the limits of any city. The person shall pay not less than ten dollars and not more than fifty dollars for the license. He shall keep a record of his business to be furnished to the chief of police, and make weekly sworn statements to the chief. The pawnbroker can't take property in pawn from a minor. The penalty shall not be more than one hundred dollars and not more than six months in jail.

THE HOUSE.

The committee on fisheries reported in favor of an appropriation of $15,000 for the hatcheries, but objection was made on the ground that it was new business and the matter was rejected. It was explained that if such a bill was really necessary it could be originated by the committee on appropriations.

THE DYNAMITE EXPLOSION.

A Man Blown to Atoms—Another Injured. Middletown, April 9.—Italian workmen engaged in thawing out dynamite this noon caused an explosion of three or four boxes. Carlotto Dusanova was blown to atoms and Marianna Galanta was badly injured, but it is thought will recover. Both men belong in New York city. The explosion did no damage to property. The men were blasting out a ledge for stone cutters and the accident was the result of carelessness.

FIFTEEN MORE MINISTERS.

Candidates Licensed at the Congregational Conference.

About thirty members of the New Haven Central Conference of Congregational ministers were in session at the Center church chapel yesterday examining fifteen members who had applied for licenses to preach. Dr. McLane presided over the session and Dr. Munger and Rev. Mr. Frank R. Luckey constituted the examining board. Those examined were: From the senior class, Messrs. Dick, Herman and Warner; from the middle class, Messrs. Baker, Beach, Bushue, Converse, Deans, Henshaw, Kimberly, Noble, Pond, Short, Wallace and Wheeler.

The candidates were all licensed.

THE MAY FESTIVAL.

Of the State Music Teachers' Association.

The next rehearsal of the chorus that is to sing in "Eljah" at the May festival will be held at Warner hall on Friday evening next. The chorus took hold of the work in excellent style at the first rehearsal last week and Conductor Damrosch complimented the members highly on their ability to read music. Although the rehearsal is to be held on Good Friday night the singers are urged to be present. The rehearsal begins at 8 o'clock and the public will be admitted on payment of ten cents.

An Alligator.

Last evening at about 7 o'clock the Adams Express company delivered to Mr. P. W. Cameron, manager of the Aldrich house cafe, an alligator that was sent to him from his friend William E. Chapman of Port Pierce, Fla. Mr. Chapman is a resident of this city and is now with the Florida Canning company at Port Pierce.

Mr. Cameron will be pleased to show his alligator to his friends. A large tank is being built for its accommodation.

MCKINLEY IN THIS STATE.

It was McKinley day in Connecticut yesterday and Ohio's great governor had a royal welcome, reminding of the popular enthusiasm of the Blaine reception days in the Nutmeg state. It was a welcome from the people and the state, as represented by its governor, its United States senators and its general assembly enthusiastically welcomed him. The distinguished Ohio governor's progress through the state was marked by big popular demonstrations at Bridgeport, New Haven and other places.

At Bridgeport as the 9:35 train rolled into the depot cheers issued from a thousand or more throats. Governor McKinley was in a special drawing room car, No. 20, attached to the rear end of the train, and the greeting brought him to the rear platform of the car. The appearance of the advocate of protection was the signal for three louder and more enthusiastic cheers. He was accompanied by United States Senators O. H. Platt of Meriden and Joseph R. Hawley of Hartford. Three more cheers were given this time for the senator and as General Hawley appeared in sight some shouted "Hawley." He responded with the remark, "I am only the conductor on this train," and then made way for Governor McKinley.

The governor bowed and smiled in acknowledgment of the ovation, but the many republicans and not inconsiderable number of democrats wanted to hear him speak, and in response to cries of "speech, speech," he said:

"I am on my way to Hartford to meet the gallant republicans of that city and this state, and did not expect this enthusiastic greeting from the people of Bridgeport. I am about to congratulate the republicans of Connecticut upon the grand victory which they won in this state last fall. What we want regardless of party is good times, good wages, steady employment, and the prosperity from which we ran away in 1892. Loud cheers. We are beginning to discover that we have never known before, that business enters into politics. People are doing in politics what they have done in business and are looking out for themselves. They had rather break with their party than break their business." Governor McKinley's speech created great enthusiasm.

AT NEW HAVEN.

At this city in waiting to greet the distinguished visitor was a throng of from 1,500 to 2,000, included among whom were many ladies. Many more of the fair sex occupied the windows at the station. In the throng upon the platform was the delegation who came down from Hartford on the 9:30 express for the purpose of meeting their guest and accompanying him to the capitol city. Among these were noticed John Addison Porter, president of the McKinley club of Hartford, whose guest Governor McKinley will be to-night; General James H. Jarman and Colonel Louis R. Cheney of the governor's staff, who were deputized by Governor Coffin to represent him, Dr. R. J. Galling, ex-Congressman John R. Buck, ex-Congressman William E. Simonds, General Alexander Harrison, Major William H. Watrous and ex-Labor Commissioner Samuel W. Hotchkiss.

Among the New Haven people were Congressman N. D. Sperry, ex-Senator James Graham, Senator Johnson, James Bishop, James H. Macdonald, Captain S. P. Crafts, Captain Ludington, Charles Hull, Attorney Niles, F. H. Waldron, W. B. Tucker, F. A. Tuttle, J. P. Peaker, F. A. Betts, G. B. Bunnell, E. Knight Sperry, John W. Lowe, Fred Waldron, Isaac Uimann, Frederick Botzford, E. L. Atwater, Representative Newton, Benjamin Cobb, Henry S. Dawson, H. G. Newton, James D. Dewell, F. B. Barnston, Lewis Elliott, Sheriff-elect Spiegel.

There was a great pushing and surging of the crowd when the train pulled into the station. Senator Platt appeared and motioned to the crowd to rally at the rear platform and a rush to that spot ensued. Governor McKinley then appeared and smilingly doffed his hat. President Porter of the Hartford McKinley club, Congressman Sperry, Vice-President Hall of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad and others shook hands with him. Then a switch engine appeared and Congressman Sperry enlightened the throng of people with the news that the private car would be quickly switched back to position again in front of the depot. This done Congressman Sperry, after waving his hat to the throng for silence, said:

"Fellow citizens: No man in this country is better known by reputation and by his acts than the gentleman by my side. I have the pleasure of introducing Governor McKinley of Ohio."

Governor McKinley was greeted with great applause. He said:

GOVERNOR MCKINLEY'S REMARKS.

"I cannot be indifferent if I would to the generous greeting you have given me as I pass through this state. I feel that I am not unacquainted with the people of Connecticut, for we have many Connecticut people in Ohio, as we have in every western state. And those parts of Ohio where the Connecticut people are most numerous are always Republican. (Cheers.) Fellow citizens, we know what we want. (Applause.) And we know when we had it before. We know exactly how we lost it and when we lost it. (Laughter.) And we know how to get it back again. (Great applause.) Connecticut has already shown how that can be done by the splendid majorities of the last election, and the country is only waiting the time when they can return to power the party of protection, which legislates for all sections. I thank you for your cordial reception."

In response to Congressman Sperry's call, three cheers were given for McKinley and the Yale men present sent up the long cheer. Before the applause had died away, the train pulled out of the depot.

The train began moving at this point and the last few words were said as it rolled away, while the throng just into loud applause, which the governor acknowledged by a final salute of his hand. The cheering continued as the car bore the eminent man away and he smiled and bowed farewell to the people before him. Before he was out of hearing the Yale boys, who were present in large numbers, proposed three long cheers, which were given as heartily as at any Yale football game they ever attended.

MCKINLEY IN MERIDEN.

Meriden, April 9.—"The only thing that will prevent me from stopping off at Meriden to-morrow will be consideration for my health," said Governor William McKinley of Ohio to a reporter of The Journal this morning. "I am really sick and am in a perspiration now. I went to bed sick in New York last night and I did not know whether I would be able to go on to Hartford to-day, but I felt better this morning and so started."

Although it was not certain that the governor would be seen there were about one hundred at the station to get a glimpse of the noted Ohioan and apostle of protection.

The committee was also at the station. They were Mayor Coo, Judge Platt, H. Wales Lines, Benjamin Page, W. F. Rockwell, N. L. Bradley and John W. Coo. Senator John W. Mix was also present.

Senator Platt came on from Washington and was the first man to alight from the directors' car of the Consolidated road in which Governor McKinley came on from New York. Senator Platt did not go to Hartford with the delegation.

The Hartford delegation was in the car, as was Senator Hawley. It was thought that the senator would be prevented from coming on from Washington on account of the illness of his little daughter, but he told a reporter that she was much better and he decided to come.

At the train left the depot Governor McKinley stepped out on the rear platform of his car, and in response to a call from the car for three cheers those at the station responded.

MAY VISIT MERIDEN TO-DAY.

Governor McKinley told a reporter that if he felt well enough he would pay a visit to Meriden to-morrow with Senator Platt.

It was arranged that if Governor McKinley comes he will leave Hartford at 10:30 to-morrow morning, reaching here at 11:11. A reception will take place at the Winthrop during the afternoon and he will return to New York on the 6:09 or 7:37 p. m. train.

PERSONAL JOTTINGS.

Albert Osgood, of this city, is visiting in New Britain.

J. E. Cooper, of Yale, is spending a few days at his home in New Britain.

Stacy H. Ward, of Branford, on Monday accompanied his sister to Claverack college, where she is studying. The latter was called home to Branford recently by the death of her grandfather and has since suffered an attack of the grip.

H. C. Warren, as receiver for the Edgewood company of Soth street, was authorized yesterday morning to sell the stock belonging to the concern in its New York store to Henry Ives for $5,250. Mr. Ives will continue the business at the New York store.

Mr. and Mrs. William Shaller have gone to Torrington and will return about May 1. This season Mr. Shaller will be associated with Horman Spohn in conducting the Sea View Hotel at Saybrook.

Attorney James P. Bree was yesterday appointed administrator on the estate of the late Elizabeth Kirby.

An exchange says: The statement which appeared in several papers yesterday as reported by the New Haven police, as to the disappearance of Edwin Tibbals, is without foundation in fact. The name of a reputable young married man of this city was coupled in the story.

Howard W. Durand, who has been a resident of this city for several years, has removed with his family to 132 New Jersey avenue, Brooklyn. Mr. Durand has accepted an engagement with a leading theatrical enterprise in New York city.

Jewett in New Haven.

For the past few weeks the cities of New England have been visited by Jewett, the magician, and New Haven will have its turn at the Hyperion theater on Easter Monday evening, when this contemporary of Herrmann and Kellar is looked to give an entertainment under the auspices of Admiral Foote post. The Norwich Bulletin said recently of Jewett: "The audiences were afforded the pleasure of being mystified and amused by Jewett, the magician. The clever performance takes rank with the most skillful and facile prestidigitators now before the public. In the main his feats in the domain of the Black Art are new, or newly adapted old ones, which keep the interest of the spectators at the highest pitch, and at which, when he laughingly explains them, they are more hypnotized than ever."

Tender, Sweating and Swelling Feet.

The only place in the city to buy Zono, the famous remedy for tender, sweating and swelling feet is at the Oxy Drug store, George D. Farovid, proprietor, 644 Chapel street. Zono has proved a boon to thousands of sufferers, who speak in high praise of its remedial qualities.

A Coming Wedding.

Miss Minna Klocker of this city will be married to Mr. William Neebe of Meriden on Thursday, April 18, at the Zion Lutheran church on Davenport avenue. Miss Klocker is an estimable young lady possessed of many friends, and Mr. Neebe is well known here having formerly lived here for many years. He is a musician of ability. The happy couple will have the good wishes of all their wide circle of friends.

TEN YEARS IN STATE PRISON

BURGLAR LONG'S HEAVY SENTENCE IN SUPERIOR COURT.

George Fletcher on Trial Charged With the Theft of a Large Sum of Money—Other Cases Disposed of—One Divorce Granted—Other Court News.

In the superior court late yesterday afternoon the trial of George Fletcher, charged with the theft of $470 from Thomas Cronan, a Frank street saloon-keeper, last October, was begun and is still on trial. The money was the proceeds of the sale of some real estate and was stolen from a bedroom over the saloon. Suspicion fell upon Fletcher, who was in the habit of hanging around the saloon, and on October 13, when the cash was tried in the city court, probable cause was found and Fletcher bound over to the January term of the superior court and thence continued to the present term. The trial will be resumed this morning.

Earlier in the day the trial of Charles Long and Charles Tompkins, charged with burglarizing the house of Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson on George street last January, was finished, the jury finding Long guilty and acquitting Tompkins. Long was sentenced to state prison for ten years.

James Lynch, charged with assaulting Mary Williams, pleaded guilty to simple assault and was sentenced to six months in jail.

The case of John Crowley, convicted of burglary at the commencement of the term and sentenced to one year in state prison, was yesterday reopened and on account of the previous good reputation of the prisoner the sentence was reduced to nine months in jail.

Civil Superior Court.

In this court yesterday Jennie M. Howard of this city was granted a divorce from Oscar A. Howard, also of this city, on the ground of infidelity. It was expected that Howard would contest the suit, but at the last minute, Attorney Chase, his counsel, informed the court the withdrawal.

An order was also passed by Judge Hall authorizing H. C. Warren, receiver of the Edgewood company, to sell the stock in the company's New York store to Henry Ives of this city for $5,250.

City Court—Criminal Side—Judge Dow.

Daniel F. Early, assault with intent to kill, continued until April 11; John Morris, drunk, discharged; breach of the peace, judgment suspended; William Morris, drunk and breach of the peace, continued until April 11; Michael J. Leonard, violation of city ordinance, nolle on payment of $2.24 costs; John Farrington, reform school complaint, continued until June 1; William M. Johnson, breach of the peace, nolle; Mary Johnson, drunk, $5 fine, $2.50 costs; breach of the peace, $5 fine; Ames Wilson, drunk, $5 fine, $2.50 costs; breach of the peace, $5 fine; John Mooney, breach of the peace, continued until April 11; Henry Brown, violation of liquor law, continued until April 11.

Court Notes.

There will be no short calendar session of either the superior or common pleas court Friday, Fast day. Thursday afternoon in the common pleas court a bar meeting will be held, when cases will be assigned.

In the probate court yesterday Attorney J. P. Bree was appointed administrator on the estate of the late Elizabeth Kirby.

CASE SETTLED.

Meriden, April 9.—The case of Mrs. Nellie Russell vs. The City of Meriden, which was to come before Judge Hall in the superior court in New Haven to-morrow, was settled at 11 o'clock this morning, when the city paid $300 and costs. Mrs. Russell, who is a school teacher in the Old Road school, fell and broke her arm on the icy sidewalk.

Golden Hill Seminary Falls.

Bridgeport, April 9.—Miss Emily Wilson, proprietor of Golden Hill seminary, the most fashionable institution of its kind in Bridgeport, went into insolvency to-day. Last year diphtheria broke out in the school and the pupils left. This caused the failure. Her liabilities are $25,000, with assets in real estate of about that amount.

A Coming Wedding.

Miss Minna Klocker of this city will be married to Mr. William Neebe of Meriden on Thursday, April 18, at the Zion Lutheran church on Davenport avenue. Miss Klocker is an estimable young lady possessed of many friends, and Mr. Neebe is well known here having formerly lived here for many years. He is a musician of ability. THE BLUES.

Why do Women have the Blues more than Men?

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

Are not women naturally as light-hearted, brave, and hopeful as men? Yes; but woman's organism is different from man's.

When the woman does not understand what the matter is, and her doctor can not or will not tell her, she grows morose and melancholy; that's the blues.

Mrs. Newton Cobb, of Manchester, O., says: "Ladies E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will correct all this trouble. I cannot praise it enough. I am pleased to tell every one that it cured me; and it will cure me, why not others? I am sure my case was severe enough." It will. Get it of your druggist at once.

Henry O. Beach Dead.

Henry O. Beach, aged forty, died suddenly yesterday morning at his home, 80 Gilbert avenue. He worked late Monday night on a new house which he is building and yesterday arose not feeling very well. Soon after dressing himself he was seized with convulsions. Dr. Anderson was called and he was revived, but later was again taken with convulsions and died about 11 o'clock. His death is thought to be due to Bright's disease. He leaves a wife.

Oysters, Clams, Lobsters.
